THE CALL TO GOSPEL MINISTRY

CV stands for Christian Vocation

CV conference provides a rare and precious opportunity to take time out for three days, away from daily responsibilities and distractions, so you can think and pray through your ministry plans for the future. Our aim is to raise up faithful, passionate Christian leaders for the growth of God's church in Adelaide and around the world. At the conference, you'll enjoy a variety of Bible talks, small group discussions, elective seminars and personal mentoring with a 'coach' during the weekend. Your coach acts as a sounding board for your plans, helps you to evaluate your gifts, identifies areas for development and offers helpful advice. At CV conference, there's also the chance to build relationships among like-minded Christian leaders, current and future, from all across South Australia.

Who should come?

CV is particularly for those who are open to considering the possibility of vocational ministry but is also for anyone with the following questions:

- » What will I do for the rest of my life?
- » What gifts has God given me for Christian ministry?
- » Should I consider training for vocational ministry?
- » What am I willing to give up to preach the gospel?
- » What opportunities are available?
- » Who can help me make these decisions?

CV is also for those already in vocational ministry who long to see others join them!

2010 Conference

You won't be disappointed as we hear from the speakers at this year's conference, Al Stewart and David Cook. With a wealth of experience and wisdom between them, come along expecting to be challenged and inspired as you consider full time vocational ministry.

Al Stewart became a Christian at university and worked in marketing for three years before deciding to enter full time Christian ministry. After working as a Bishop for the last three years, this year Al will leave the position to take a role of seeing new churches started around Sydney and beyond. He is one of the founding members of The Geneva Push, an Australian church planting network. Al's great passion in life is to have people and particularly men understand the message of Jesus, and have their lives transformed. Al is married to Kathy and has four adult children.

David Cook is a Presbyterian minister and a graduate of Sydney Missionary and Bible College (SMBC) and Moore Theological College. Prior to this, David worked in the Economic Research Department of the Reserve Bank. He is the Director of SMBC's School of Preaching and speaks at Christian conventions throughout Australia and overseas. David lectures in preaching and pastoral subjects. He is married to Maxine, and they have five adult children.

Peter Lockery, Principal of Bible College SA

As someone deeply involved in preparing and training men and women for various Christian ministries, I heartily endorse CV. It is a wonderful opportunity to think through, in community with others, the exciting possibilities of serving God in vocational ministry. Great Bible teaching, focused small group discussions and conversations with those involved in vocational ministry, make CV a unique opportunity not to be missed. I look forward to seeing you there!

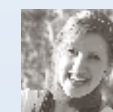

David Wright, Minister, St Albans Largs Bay

You're reading this brochure thinking, should I go to CV? Yes you should! As followers of Jesus we no longer live for ourselves but for him who died for us. Question is, how will you do that? CV provides a great opportunity to nut out some of those issues. Do I serve God through my work? As a missionary? In a local church? God provides the gift of His people to help each other talk through and pray through the issues as we glean the accumulated wisdom of others. So come!

Matthew Cranwell, Ministry Apprenticeship Program (MAP) - 'Trainee'

I'm not sure what full time ministry might look like in the future - but it is exciting and challenging to see how God is using me. Though it took 4 years of CV to work it out, I have finally taken the plunge and begun MAP, with a potential view to overseas mission in some form in the future.

Jess Harris

For someone like me who's a few years out of school and wondering where the next steps beyond Uni should be - CV's not to be missed! It's a fantastic opportunity to deliberately seek God's guidance for the next five years and make the most of the many options that are available at this stage of life - as well as hang out with like-minded Christians and gain valuable advice from those who've been where I am.

Nigel & Rosanne Klein

It was really great to set aside time to be thoroughly immersed in God's word, away from daily distractions. As parents, it was wonderful to have the time, as a couple, to reset the compass, focus on God's kingdom and where we fit in. For us, CV proved to be a key time of help and affirmation in our decision for overseas mission. We would recommend CV for anyone considering full or part-time vocational ministry.
